My dear Sir,

A few days ago I went to the store of L. A. Lauthier, No 6 Astor Place, in this city, to have two pictures framed, and while there he showed me an oil painting said to have been executed by Corregio. It represents a young woman in a nude state lying down asleep and a Satyr lifting a thin veil from her. One leg is drawn up to hide "the appla". The picture seemed to me to be very good, and Mr. Lauthier said that if you wanted to see it with a view of buying it he would send it on to you free of cost, or submit it to the inspection of any agent you might have in New York. His price is $5,000.00.

I hope that the portrait of my wife, Mrs.
R. C. M. Page, is all right.
You can answer this letter or not as I shall consider that I have ended my commission in writing this. With kindest regards and best wishes for the Corcoran Gallery and well as yourself and Mr. Corcoran,
I remain very respy

D. Sir: I visited your gallery a few days ago, and in all kindness dared me to make a criticism. I was surprised and shocked to see that the Portrait of the President of the United States had been removed from the line & hung for the benefit of some tawdry pictures lately placed.

I believe you have and display the most complete and important collection of Presidential Portraits in the country. How many thousands annually from home & abroad visit the Corcoran Gallery - the representative art-spot in the Capitol City. The whole collection is of a high order and worthy the taste and liberality of its celebrated founder.

But according to my notion the portraits of the Presidents are the most valuable pictures in the building. I mean the men because they were called by the people to hold the great office of President & their counterparts should be in the place of honor — on the line — where every man woman & child, who visits the gallery can not fail to see them.

We need to honor in every way the memory of those who founded & fostered our great Republic.

I am sure every patriotic man feels in this way & thinks it almost an insult to the memory of the Presidents when he sees their portraits hung so high as to be almost imperceptible.

I would not be doing justice to my feelings without penning this letter & I presume you are glad to have expressions of opinion from all quarters.

Very truly yours

S. C. Judson
